THURSDAY MORNING, JULY II, 1878. HOLD TO WHAT WE HAVE.

The Republican party of the United States are well officered, and in many sections of our government they are thoroughly drilled. By the result of investi gations which have exposed their corrupt officials, their tyranny and their defalcations, they have been unable to receive public favor for the last two or three elections, but still their experience in manipulation has enabled them to retain control of the government offices to which Democrats have been elected, and those who expect to get rid of these political usurpers without a determined and bitter struggle at the ballet box and before the returning boards are, we fear, over sanguine. The whole machinery of their organization will be exerted in the coming elections, and the sagacity and patriotism of the Democratic voters of the nation will be put to the severest test. The Republicans expect to regain by diplomacy and strategy what they have lost in open political battle, and the line of fight which will be opposed to us in this canvass will be far more difficult for us successfully to conquer than any we have ever contended against. "Divide and conquer," is the Republican motto and their hoard of ignorant voters in the South will be harled like an avalanche into every breech which may be made in the Democratic ranks, for the purpose o disrupting the organization and produc ing divisions which in the future they will use to compass our defeat. In this State it is the duty of every Democrat at this time to stick close to the organization of the party which conquered the enemy in 1878. Let us avoid as far as possible any innovations upon the plat form or the policy of that most successfu and ever-to-be-ad mired canvass. In some sections there seems to be an indication of restlessness, and desire to make mate rial deviations from the policy of the last canvass, which, if encouraged, will utterly dissipate the unity and strength of our party. We had better let well enough alone. It is bad generalship to change a line of fight which has put the enemy to flight for one which, at best, is a mere experiment.

If we wish to retain Democratic supren acy in South Carolina, it can only be done by a rigid perseverance in the plan of Democratic organization, based on a magnanimous and just policy towards the masses of the Republican party. In many cases they may be won over to us, and it is better for us to have them as allies than as foes. If Republicans wish to join us we should receive them kindly, but the interests of our party require that none but true and tried Democrats should be entrusted with our political interests The genuine convert to Democracy will be willing to prove his faith by his works. and should be content to follow for while, at least, instead of leading Where Republicans join our clubs at this late day they are not entitled to the credit which are attached to those who came to us in the trying days of 1876, and while our policy should be liberal, magnanimous and even generous, it should not be suicidal. We must maintain our clubs, and our political identity must be preserved. There should be a difference between Democrats and Radicals, and the difference should be based upon the political honesty and integrity of their respective members. We must not make the restriction upon membership too rigid, neither must we place our clubs in the hands of those not in sympaty with the aims and objects of our organization. To retain and secure good government in South Carolina and in the United States is of supreme importance to our whole people, and in the effort to secure it a common cause should be made by all true patriots. In this effort all local differences, all personal preferences and prejudices, and all petty grievances should be utterly ignored, and the patriots with one accord should sustain and defend the party of reform and good government, which, in our State and Natica, is the Democratic party.

General Grant invited certain states men (?) to visit Louisiana and Florida pending the counting of the electoral vote in those States, as he said in the interest of a fair count. Certain gentlemen of the Republican party went out to those States and forgot their mission so far as to promise some of the supervisors and returning board membeni lucrative government positions if they would suppress evidence showing that those States went Democratic. After giving their services in this noble (?) manner to their country they returned to their homes and made out bills against the government for the amount due them for expenses, &c. The last Congress could not exactly comprehend the situation, and declined to pay these gentlemen anything for the part they took in procuring theft of the presidency. They think it very stingy on the part of our government, and now feel the old adage that "republics are ungrateful." They are, however, comforted by Secretary Sherman, who promises to get it for them out of the next Congress. It is, however, poor encouragement to the vis-iting statesmen, for they no doubt realize that Mr. Sherman does not control the legislation of the nation.

The object of Gen. B. F. Butler in being so relentless and merciless towards the administration in his action upon the Potter Committee has not been understood until recently. It now appears that he holds that the Republicans carried Louisiana and Florida, but that Haves, fearing he would be counted out, bargained away the State governments of those States and of South Carolina to the Democrats, in order to secure his own promotion, for which he ought to be impeached. This is rather a strained view of the case, for the letters of Matthews and Sherman go to show that the bargaining was done with the Republicans before the count to induce them to suppress evidence showing that the State of Louisiana went Democratic. For this we think Mesers, Hayes, Wheeler and Sherman about all three be impeached. The Democratic was been nothing. He advance on the constant of the quality known as middling, and brought 201 cents, a considerable advance on the constant of the quality known as middling, and brought 201 cents, a considerable advance on the constant of the constant of the quality known as middling, and brought 201 cents, a considerable advance on the constant of t Pinkston was carried upon a lounge into the room where the visiting statesmen were assembled. The full election returns from Oregon give the Democrats not only a majority of the Legislature and Congressman, but they elect Thayer Governor by 54 votes. The Radicals get but a very small crumb of comfort in the election of the State Treasurer. It was a close shave, but the Democracy gets the lion's share of the division of officers.

We quote from the report in the News and Courier:

At the conclusion of Gen. Conner's oration, and as soon as the applause which followed it had died away, a hundred voices called out "Hampton." The cry socn became general, and the Governor, finding escape impossible, came to the front amid a perfect thunder of cheers and a shower of bougets.

After assuring the audience that he came to Blackville merely as a looker on and not as a speechmaker, the Governor said: And I am sure that I could say nothing better than to repeat the remark made by a gentleman who was called upon to speak after Burke. He got up and said: "I say ditto to all Mr. Burke has said." Now I would say, to-day, time and energy and great ability to the cause of freedom and home rule-who, when we were successful, gave to our gov ernment that sound judgment and that conservatism which have marked his course throughout-when I heard him give to the people to day, and through them to the whole State those pregnant words; when I heard him tell the young men that there was something more than office; when I heard him tell the people to scorn the office-seekers and to look for men who subordinated self to the feel-ing of periodical ART. 7. not deviated one iota, and despite the priticisms against me, I defy any man to place his finger upon one single act of mine that is not in strict accord with the policy of the Democratic party in convention assembled in 1876. They gave me a chart and compass by which I was to conduct that campaign. Taking it as my guide, I went before the people, black and white, and in the name of the people I held up that platform and I said to them: "Here is what the white people of South Carolina have said to the world 'We have accepted the national Demo-cratic platform which recognizes the equality of every citizen before the law. From where the blue capped mountains kiss the sky to where old ocean rolls upon the coast, from North to South, from East to West, I went before the people, white and black, and told them that if they elected us, they would put men in office who would recognize all the pledgs and would carry them out in good faith, and I tell you the men you have placed in power would cut off their right arms before they would violate their pledges. [Prolonged applause.]

If it is thought that we can be successful in the election by fraud, (and I have heard rumors floating throughout the State occasionally, intimating that we had the machinery of the elections in our own hands and that we could count in anybody we pleased,) I tell you, people of Barnwell, and people of South Carolina, that if you once countenance fraud, before many years pass over your heads you will not be worth saving, and will not be worthy of the State you live [Cheers.] Fraud cannot be success ful, because the chosen sons of South-Carolina form the returning board now. The men that you have placed there as representing the truth and honor of South Carolina would die before they would perjure themselves by placing men wrongfully in office. [Cheers.] You can carry the election by standing squarely on the platform of 1876! Dis-play that banner again! Call upon all the citizens of South Carolina that want honest government to rally to the stand-ard, and my word for it you will carry the State, and you will carry it over-whelmingly! Is the Easiest Selling. The Best Satisfying,

ITS introduction and world-renowned reputation was the death blow to high priced machines. There are no second-rend Warres Machines in the market. This hand WHITE MACHINES in the market. In is a very important matter, as it is a well known and undisputed fact that many of the so-called first-class machines which are offered so cheap nowadays are those that have been repossessed (that is, taken back from customers after use) and rebuilt and from customers after use) and rebuilt and put upon the market as new.

The White is the peer of any Sewing Machine now upon the market. It is much larger than the family machines of the Singer, Howe and Weed make. It costs more to manufacture than either of the aforesaid machines. Its construction is simple, positive and durable. Its work-washing unsurpossed. manship is unsurpassed.

AB Do not buy any other before trying the White. Prices and terms made satis factory. For sale by

ARE the Best, Simplest and rost Durable in use. It has been greatly improved in the last few months, although the old was very good. There are over six hundred of them in daily use in this County, giving perfect satisfaction. You may buy a Machine, "so-called," for less money, but if you want to be satisfied after you purchast always get the best. This Company self more than all the rest put together, and there are about fifty different Machines on the market. The Singer was the first to reduce the price, and of course the mainers. reduce the price, and of course the minora had to follow, and they had to come a little had to follow, and they had to come a little below the Singer, or else they would have to abandon business, for I know from experience that parties say if yon will take for the Singer what I can get another at, I will take the Singer all the time. What do they mean by that?

Cash prices, $35, $40 and $45, owing to style and finish, but the Machines are the same throughout in the nice adjustment of their parts, &c.

The best criterion that I can give you as to my opinion of the different machines, is my connection with this famous Machine for nine years in succession.

Machines sold on easy terms. léachines of all makes repaired at short notice, and prices moderate. Needles, Oil and parts always on hand. Come and see me before you buy. Up-stairs, over Barr & Fant's Store.
